He wanted the fine raised so that he could take an appeal, but the mayor declined to accommodate him.

A MINER KILLED.

William Linn the Victim of a Terrible Mine Accident

IN THE AETNA-STANDARD SHAFT.

A Huge Rock Fell from the Ceiling of the Main Shaft and Struck Linn Crushing His Body Badly—He Was Killed Almost Instantly—Linn Had Survived Many Catastrophes Before This.

William Linn, a miner employed in the Standard mill coal mine, was killed instantly yesterday morning. The deceased was forty-eight years old and resided on Second street, Martin's Ferry.

The accident occurred about 6:30 a. m. He was working in an entry. He had just filled a can with coal oil, and was walking alongside of some empty cars, when a large stone weighing several hundred pounds, let loose and fell, striking the side of his head, and crushing it. His neck was also broken. He fell on his knees, and the stone, which was about four feet long and three feet wide, lodged between the side of the entry and the car. Mr. Linn's cap being pinned between the stone and car.

His son-in-law, Henry Elliott, who was working in a cross cut near by, heard the stone fall, and asked Linn if he was hurt, but received no reply. Linn never spoke after he was struck. Elliott rushed to the spot and found him as above stated. He picked him up and he only breathed a few times. His body was placed in a car, hauled to the entrance and conveyed to his home in Martin's Ferry. Coroner J. B. Lowman was summoned, but did not hold an inquest, and will not until he hears from the mine inspector, who was notified to come and examine the bank with reference to its safety. If the inspector does not come the mine will be examined by Coroner Lowman and Constable T. H. Stanton, and testimony be taken. The remains will not be interred until this is done.

The deceased was on the police force in Martin's Ferry four years, was city marshal two years and was constable two years. While he was arresting Otto Gilmore in 1882 he was terribly slashed by Gilmore with a razor, and was supposed to be fatally injured. He was badly used up by the cars on the Cleveland & Pittsburgh railroad in Martin's Ferry four years later, and was seriously injured by the fall of a derrick. He was also hurt at the blast furnace, and narrowly escaped drowning once. Gilmore served a term in the penitentiary for cutting Linn. The unfortunate man had sustained sufficient injury to kill several men. He collected big damages from the railroad company after he was hurt by the cars. He was well known and had many friends. He was a brother of Alec Linn, of Martin's Ferry, and Mrs. Jacob Pence, of Greensburg, Pa., and leaves two daughters, Mrs. Henry Elliott, of Martin's Ferry, and Mrs. Frank Moore, of Woodfield. His wife had been dead a long time.

Coroner Lowman examined several witnesses last night and will render his verdict after the mine has been inspected to-day by the state or district inspector.

The funeral will take place this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

An unusually fine bill of fare has been provided, and to make things more attractive the waiters and cooks, who are members of the society, will be clothed in regular waiters' jackets and aprons.
